CHINESE FORCES IN HARD BATTLE ON LONG FRONT

Engagement Continued All Day Yesterday With Heavy Artillery.

Aliens Advised By Legations to Take Refugee In Peking.

Peking, April 29.—(By The A. P.)—Fighting south of the Peking-Tien Tsin railway was still in progress at noon today. The forces of General Chang Tso Lin, military governor of Manchuria, and General Wu Pei Fu, military leader of central China, were reported engaged along a line extending from Machang, 20 miles south of Tiensin to a point south of Peking.

A dispatch from Tientsin says there has been heavy artillery firing near Machang for the last 20 hours.

The foreign legations here have advised the nationals of their respective countries who are outside of Peking to hasten to the capital as a measure of self protection.

The fighting which began at dawn this morning at Changsintient, 12 miles southwest of this city, was continuing at 3 o'clock this afternoon. There was artillery firing in the vicinity.

The firing opened along the front extending from Changsintien, 12 miles southwest of Peking to a point 30 miles due south. Both armies are entrenched along the Peking-Hanko railroad with Wu Pei-fu's base at Pao Ting-fu. The artillery firing was heard distinctly in Peking and thousands of persons, including many foreigners, mounted the city walls, from which the smoke of the battle field was visible.

During the night sounds of intermittent firing came from the front, but with the dawn a brisk cannonade began, the city rousing to the mounting sound.

The government is prepared to close the city gates at any moment but this has so far not been deemed necessary.

The members of the government, headed by Hsu Shi-Chang are as one in lamenting the hostilities. The president declares he will remain neutral and acting Premier Chou Tsu-Chi says that efforts to prevent civil war are being continued.

Foreign observers report that Wu-Pei-fu is attempting to turn the right flank of Chang Tso-lin's troops by wedging in between the latter's front and Peking. Feng Yuh-siang, known the the "Christian General" is in command of Wu-Pei-Fu's operations near Pinking.

A Peking dispatch to The Associated Press received last night, but under today's date owing to the time difference of thirteen hours, said fighting had begun at dawn at Changsintien, twelve miles southwest of Peking and that heavy artillery firing was audible in the capital.

The Peking-Tienstin railway connects Peking with Taku, her seaport and the allied diplomats recently served notice on the Chinese northern government that this line of communication must be kept open as a means of safe egress for the foreigners in Peking should the capital be menaced by the forces of Wu Pei-fu.

It would appear that Chang Tso-Lin's forces were endeavoring to protect both the capital and the railway. The dispatches indicate that the battle line is approximately 100 miles long.

Newark Doctors to Attend State Meeting

If you ring your doctor's door bell in vain or his telephones remain unanswered Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, you will probably find that he has left these parts to enjoy the society of his professional friends during the seventy-sixth annual meeting of the Ohio State Medical Association in Cincinnati on those days.

The scope of interest for the medical man or woman is constantly widening and few physicians in active practice feel that they can afford to miss the opportunity to keep abreast of the times on scientific as well as social and economic conditions which the annual meeting of the medical organization offers.

A large delegation from this county will be headed by Dr. Leland Baxter, president, and Dr. W. E. Shrontz, secretary of the Licking County Medical Society. They will be among the guests of honor at a luncheon given by the State Association in compliment to the presidents, secretaries and treasurers of all the component county societies and academies of the state.

In the House of Delegates, or governing body of the medical organization, this county will be represented by Drs. J. P. Stedem and Victor Turner, who have been selected as delegate and alternate, respectively. Dr. Shrontz is also a member of one of the active commitees which will hold a luncheon meeting on the first day of the meeting.

The list of physicians who are scheduled to participate in the program of the various scientific sessions includes a number from this section of the state.

WOMEN CHEER EX-PRESIDENT

Thousands Gather in Front of Home of Woodrow Wilson — He's Too Ill to Speak.

Washington, April 29.—Several thousand women, including numerous delegates to the Baltimore convention of the National League of Women Voters and to the convention here of the League of American Pen Women, staged a demonstration late yesterday before the home here of former President Wilson.

Cheers of the women brought Mr. Wilson to the door and upon requests for a speech he declared that while he appreciated the compliment very much he felt he was "not strong enough to make a speech."

Mr. Wilson, called back by the cheers, again thanked the women and added:

"I will repeat for you one of my favorite limericks which runs as follows:

"'For beauty I am no star,
"'My face I don't mind it,
"'Because I am behind it.'"

The rest of the verse was lost in a burst of laughter and cheering that was heard for blocks.

The former president made his appearance resting heavily upon a cane and assisted by a negro butler. He was attired in a black frock coat and top hat and similingly greeted his visitors. Doffing his hat and hanging his cane in the pocket of his coat he bowed and then said:

"Thank you very much for the compliment. I appreciate it very much. I am sorry I am not strong enough to make a speech."

Mr. Wilson then retired to the house and when the cheering throng kept up the tumult calling first for Mr. Wilson and then Mrs. Wilson the former president and his wife appeared at an upper window and smilingly waved to the crowd below. It was then that Mr. Wilson repeated his limerick. For several minutes he and Mrs. Wilson remained at the window while the women visitors sang songs and applauded intermittently until the window was closed.

The delegation was to have been headed by Lady Astor but she had another engagement for the same hour.

The economic situation which confronts the world constitute the gravest menace in all history, declared Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, speaking tonight before a meeting of the Pan-American conference of women and the National League of Women Voters at Continetal Memorial Hall.

Secretary Hughes, Ambassador Mathieu of Chile, Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mrs. Maud Wood Park, and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, also spoke.

G. O. P. RULE IS WORST IN FIFTY YEARS

Blames U. S. Attitude for Situation at Genoa—Says Policy is Disturbing Factor in World.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 29.—Speaking before a state-wide gathering of Democrats here last night, James M. Cox of Dayton, O., Democratic candidate for president in 1920, in attacking the Harding administration, declared that "it may go down in history as the outstanding failure of the last 50 years."

"The very thing that has threatened to disrupt the conference at Genoa is the outgrowth of our international processes of circumlocution," he asserted.

The result of the arms conference at Washington, he said, is a "regional alliance. This," he continued, "has led to other alliances, and grave crises have come in consequence."

"Not only have we ceased to be helpful, but in view of recent developments it is apparent that we are a distinctly desturbing factor in international affairs. Recognizing the futility of appealing to our government, the statesmen of the world are endeavoring to arouse the co-operation of individual agencies."

The Republican campaign pledge of "reorganization, economy and added efficiency in government." Mr. Cox declared "has developed into the actuality of spoils in government. The ruling objective is to strengthen the control of the Old Guard.

"With an almost unprecedented opportunity to render service to humanity, with every facility of political control, with a widespread spirit of public co-operation, the Republican party has not successfully met the test of responsibility. If it is to survive as an organization, it must turn to a new leadership. It was constructed upon the moral philosophy of Lincoln. It cannot feed on the hate of Lodge and live."

FIRE DANGER FROM RADIO POINTED OUT

New York, April 29.—Thousands of amateur Marconis and Edisons experimenting with their radio outfits, have caused the national board of fire underwriters to issue a new set of regulations covering the installation of wireless sending and receiving appartus.

"One of the fire dangers connected with the present radio craze is the inclination of those interested to experiment with lighting circuits and other high voltage systems," says a statement issued by the underwriters in connection with the new regulations.

The new regulations are concerned chiefly with precautions against the accidental contact of outside radio wires with high power electric light wires or trolley feeders, protection against lightning and against contact of wires indoors which might cause short circuit fires.

No Action Is Taken to Carry Out Arms Treaties

Washington, April 29.—Presumably because most of the world is preoccupied with other things, the work of perfecting the program mapped out by the Washington arms conference is proceeding very slowly.

Thus far the United States alone has given notification of its readiness to exchange ratifications of the conference treaties, and although under conference agreements, the personnel of two important commissions was to have been completed by May 6, no steps apparently have been taken toward selection of any of the commission members. One of these is to attempt revision of the rules of war and the other is to investigate extra territoriality in China.

It was said at the state department that no names of delegates for either commisson had been communcated to the department and officials suggested that the delay might be accounted for by the pressure of official business in foreign countries, due to the Genoa conference and other questions.

The time and place of meeting of the rules of warfare commission are to be selected by the American government after consultation with the other four powers represented, but pending selection of the delegates no move has been made to discuss that subject. The general impression here is that the meeting probably take place some where in Europe, perhaps at the Hague.

RUSSIANS WILL WITHDRAW NOTE ENVOY ASSERTS

Delegation Doesn't Like Reception Accorded It By Allies.

Special Committee Will Draft Allies Proposal To Bolshevists.

Genoa, April 29.—(By The A. P.)—Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Russia today sent Premier Facta of Italy, as president of the economic conference, a note expressing the dissatisfaction of the Russian delegation regarding its note of April 20 and saying the note would be withdrawn and the Rusisans would resume their initial proposition unless they were assured that the credits necessary to restore it would be granted.

In line with Prime Minister Lloyd George's declaration that the new allied proposals to the Russians must be considered as a whole, a special drafting committee was endeavoring today to frame a document which would harmonize the differences in the demands submitted by the British and French delegations.

The preamble was completed last night and the remainder of the draft was expected to be ready for submission to the full sub-committee on Russian affairs scheduled to meet at 11 o'clock today.

While the French document stated that "agricultural reconstruction should come before other things" the British program dealt more fully with credits for Russia, favoring a reduction in her war debt and conceding that foreigners formerly owning property in Russia be granted the use of it instead of a return of actual ownership, which would conflict with the Soviet principle of nationalization.

France would demand that if private property cannot be restored the former owners be given indemnity. The French further desire an arrangement for payment of interest on the Russian state bonds. Failing an agreement before December 31 next the matter be decided by mixed arbitrtion tribunal with an impartial chairman. Louis Barthou, chief French delegate took occasion yesterday formally to deny rumors that he intended to quit the conference and said it was not sure he would go to Paris to confer with Premier Poincare. It is understood; however that he may leave for the French capital after the allied Russian proposals are reported to the conference proper.

FROSTS EFFECT LOCAL MARKET

Early Vegetables Nipped By Cold Snap — No Asparagus is Offered By Dealers.

Wholesalers reported this morning that cabbage, apples, potatoes and bananas have been moving fast, and that Texas yellow onions and new potatoes are cheaper. Texas onions have dropped off $2.25 on the crate the past two weeks. Today's quotation is $3 a crate and the retail price is cheaper at three pounds for 25 cents. New potatoes are down to $3 a bushel. They were $4. Bananas and cabbage are higher. Bananas will be $6 per 100 pound, and cabbage quotations reached $4 a crate; $3.50 and $3.75 was the former price, and dealers say that the price will go higher.

Plenty of nice large strawberries were selling at 30 cents a quart this morning on the retail markets. There was no asparagus for sale on account of the recent heavy frosts. Pineapples have been off the market for the past few weeks but were selling this morning for 35 and 40 cents each.

Butter and egg prices remain firm. Grocers reported 22 cents a dozen the buying price for eggs and 25 cents the selling price, and 35 cents a pound the buying price for butter and 45 the selling price. The lowest egg quotation found was 24 cents. Other prices of fruit and vegetables remain the same as last week.

PRESIDENT DOES NOT RECEIVE CRUSADERS

Washington, April 29.—"The children's crusade" organized to seek from President Harding general amnesty for war law violators now imprisoned, arrived today in Washington, called at the White House and was directed by George B. Christian, Jr., the president's secretary, to lay its petition before Attorney General Daugherty.

The "crusade" composed of 37 wives and children of men still imprisoned for war violation did not see President Harding.

Newark Man Helps to Feed 20,000 Refugee Orphans

Captain George E. Smith has written an interesting account of his work among the children in Near East Relief orphanages in Alexandropol, a city in Armenia's famine belt, in a letter received by his sister, Mrs. Austin Oakleaf, of 137 South Webb street. Captain Smith is now at Kasatchi Post, one of the three orphanage centres of Alexandropol, where altogether 20,000 children are quartered.

Captain Smith writes:

"I am stationed at Alexandropol, which today is the largest orphanage-centre in the world containing 20,000 orphan wards of the Near East Relief. Such figures convey no idea of what that number of children means to the relief-worker who deals with them face to face.

"Alexandropol, set in a plain 5000 feet above sea-level, is surrounded by mountains towering twice that height. Our orphan population there is divided into 'towns' of six to seven thousand children each. They are housed in groups of stone buildings, formerly Russian army barracks. Each of the 'towns' is directed by a group of five or six Americans. Their task is the general supervision of the large staff of Armenian doctors, nurses, teachers and helpers, who are in immediate charge of the children.

"All the orphans at Seversky, which is the name of the 'town where I am stationed, are hospital cases, suffering from trachoma. This malignant eye-disease, the greatest scourge of the Near East, is commonly contracted by living in crowded barracks with diseased refugees. The disease ends in complete blindness unless promptly and carefully treated. Once daily each orphan-patient receives eye-treatment, spending the rest of the day at school, where the native teachers are striving to make up for these children the seven schoolless years that were inevitably wasted during the war. Moreover, those long years of hardship and malnutrition have so affected many of them that it will take months of careful feeding before they are fit to compete mentally with normal, healthy children.

"Of Seversky's 30 buildings, some provide sleeping arrangements. These are huge stone dormitories. children each. Few of them concontain beds, but the majority of the children are not accustomed to such luxuries and do not mind having their mattresses laid on the stone floor. The schoolrooms lack desks and chairs, the pupils squtting on straw mattresses which are placed on the floor. Pencils and paper are too scarce for common use, so each child uses a slat made of tin. Their clothing is just as rough-and-ready as the schoolroom equipment. Near East Relief aorphans clad in American cast-off garments, of which nondescript and often ill-fitting rainment they are inordinately proud. As food is very expensive, most of it being shipped from the United States, our daily menu is cut close to absolutely scientific requirements, figured in calories.

"These 20,000 orphans will go out into the world at the age of 15 by which time they will have had fair schooling, and sufficient knowledge of some trade to render them self-supporting. With a few years of peace in Armenia, the Near East Relief will have accomplished a truly great work. This year's harvest time will be the crisis for Armenia. With a yield of sufficient seed for an average crop, the country will improve enormously. If the seed proves insufficient, I dread to think of next winter. Meanwhile we strive to make every dollar do the utmost good to the greatest possible number. One who sees at first hand the Near East Relief work in Armenia, can have no doubts as to its being worth while."

NEW FRENCH ENVOY.

Paris, April 29.—(By The A. P.)—Count Peretti De La Rocca, political director of the foreign office, is likely to succeed Jean Jules Juesserand as ambassador to the United States as soon as the former can be spared by Premier Poincare, it was stated today. The retirement of M. Jusserand, according to present plans, will be arranged during his usual summer visit to Paris. Count Peretti De La Rocca now holds a position corresponding to that of permanent under secretary of state of foreign affairs and is in next in charge under the foreign minister.

MILK MUST BE PASTEURIZED

Health Board Acts on Proposal to Assure Pure Milk Supply to City.

At the meeting of the Board of Health held Friday night after quite a little discussion on the effects of pasteurization and the presence of tuberculosis being the most fatal prevailing disease, the board adopted resolutions instructing the health commissioner to prepare resolutions requiring pasteurization of milk or have herds tested for tuberculois on the part of those supplying the city with milk. The draft will be presented to the board at the next meeting.

Committees from the Federation of Woman's clubs, the Trades and Labor Council and the Charities Newsies attended the meeting in the interest of cleaning up the city and will present resolutions to the city council asking that property owners keep their premises clean to the middle of the street. The committees also will co-operate with the board of health in any movements that need their support.

Health Commissioner Knauss stated this morning that the health department has put into effect dairy farm inspection and that inspections would continue as rapidly as it is practical. Reports of the premises and barns and the cleanliness in handling the milk would be scored and kept on file. Farmers are expected to follow instructions issued in the U. S. farm bulletins No. 602 and 748 recently issued, as cleanliness is a safe guard against disease. Possibilities are that dairy farms will be given a proper length of time to get their herds into condition and to install posteurization plants.

Early Lincoln Statue Will Be Restored in Capital

Washington, April 29.—Re-errection on its original site in Washington of one of the first monuments dedicated to Abraham Lincoln and which for two years or more has been buried away in a courthouse basement, is ordered in a bill, passed by the house.

When a new courthouse was built several years ago the monument, funds for which were raised by popular subscription shortly after Lincoln's assassination, was ordered down by the Fine Arts Commission on the theory that it was out of harmony with its surroundings and that its pedestal was unsafe.

The monument, which was the work of Lot Flannery, who knew Lincoln intimately, consists of a life size statue.

Ever since it was taken down a fight led by the Grand Army of the Republic, the Loyal Legion and other organizations has been waged against congress to put it back. President Harding joined in, declaring there seemed to be much of appealing sentiment about the restoration that congress ought to help. The legion contended removal of the monument was a desecration and posts throughout the country had offered to take it and set it up if it was to remain forever under a cover of rags in a basement where nobody could see it.

SECTION HANDS KILL 3 OFFICERS 28 GREEKS HELD

Men Employed on Flood Repair Work in Illinois Do Shooting.

Sheriff and Two Deputies Killed in Attempt to Make Arrests.

Beardstown, Ill., April 29.—(By The A. P.)—Out of the worst flood in its history into the greatest shooting affray this vicinity ever has experienced, the city of Beardstown and the village of Frederick, separated by the flooded Illinois river, were joined at dawn today in an attempt to exact justice for the killing at Frederick late last night of Sheriff Lashbrook and two deputies of Schuyler county.

The deputies were Carl Neff, who died two and one-half hours after the shooting, and Frank Utter, who, with the sheriff, was killed instantly. Stories of the shooting at Frederick and the subsequent arrest of 28 Greek relief hands, charged with the killings, as they jumped from a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train as it pulled into Beardstown, equal the wildest fiction.

The maintenance of way workers, who three weeks ago when flood water was at its highest, were ordered out of Beardstown, were charged with nightly trouble making at Frederick, where they were brought by the railroad this week to repair tracks damaged by flood waters. Sheriff Lashbrook, with three deputies, approached the workers' box car last night to arrest some of them and warn the others to be peaceful.

A volley heard across the flooded river rang out as the quartet stepped on the station platform. Three of the four fell. Deputy J. M. Kelly felt the whiz of bullets and jumped to safety behind a corner of the station. From this point, he says, he saw the men in a body rush to the C., B. and Q. passenger train which pulled into the station from the north as the shooting ceased. Some others ran in the opposite direction. Across the river Chief of Police Patterson gathered four of his policemen and waited for the train, fearing trouble. The track workers literally jumped into their arms, but four made a wild scurry to escape. They plunged waist deep into the water which for weeks has made Beardstown's streets impassible except to boots and boats.

Capture of the four was effected without difficulty. Chief Patterson headed the 28 toward the city jail and under the pistols of the four police the prisoners went waist deep to jail. Guards about the place immediately were doubled and then quadrupled. The guard was put at the C., B. and Q. bridge to stop every one from Schuyler county who seemed bent on trouble, and another guard sent to the section gang in the Beardstown yard. Every precaution was taken, the chief said, to prevent violence, which it was feared might follow when Beardstown citizens learned the prisoners were the maintenance of way workers.

In Frederick meanwhile, Schuyler county authorities were working fast. Coroner Fred Harvey and States Attorney Morning arrived from Rushville and preparations were made for an immediate inquest. Six men were obtained for a jury. As they were about to be sworn in, word came from another room in the house of Dr. McElroy that Deputy Carl Neff had died.

Fired by the death of his chief and both fellow deputies, J. M. Kelly asked that the inquest be postponed and that he be allowed to turn all his energy to getting the men still at large. He headed a posse, which killed one man outside Frederick at 2:30 this morning. Another was arrested at Browning, five miles up the river. He had walked the distance and was caught attempting to board a train. A quantity of cartridges and a razor was found in his pockets. While Deputy Kelly continued his search Coroner Harvey examined the bodies of the three dead men. Sheriff Lashbrook was shot in the chest, Deputy Utter in the mouth, and Deputy Neff in the back of the head. The coroner announced he would continue the inquest at 9 o'clock this morning at Rushville after the bodies had been removed there. Preparations were made at Rushville at the same time for the reception of the 28 prisoners held at Beardstown.

There was doubt, however, in the minds of some Schuyler county folks whether removal of the prisoners to the county seat, where the dead men were so well known, would be wise. Nothing would be done, it was announced at Rushville until further word from the state's attorney.

Sheriff Lashbrook was 40 years old. Deputy Utter leaves a wife and four children. Deputy Neff was 45. The sheriff's term was to expire this fall and he had announced his intention to retire.

After an all nights vigil Chief of Police Patterson and his force of four men, this morning were relieved by five special guards and Deputy Sheriff William Souilion, who said there appeared to be evidence of intended violence in Beardstown.

Beardstown and Frederick are in west central Illinois and are about five miles apart on opposite sides of the Illinois river. Beardstown is in Case county and Frederick is in Schuyler county, the seat of which is Rushville and it is from Rushville that the investigation of the shooting will be directed.

Bobbie did not like women—except the mother whom he could not remember He thought of her as "one too good and beautiful for this world whom the angels had taken away" Brian Wayne and Carson both encouraged the boy in this belief

There came a woman into the West, however who quickly won young Bobbie's heart, and Brian Wayne's as well This was Janice Webb With her to Morgan City came her father and Walter Travers Travers expecting to marry Janice had made arrangements for her to buy vast tracts of land in the region To depress the values of the holdings, that his intended bride might buy them as cheaply as possible, he hired two bad men Meacham and Norton to make life miserable and unprofitable for the ranchers The precious pair proceeded to steal cattle and otherwise make matters burdensome for the ranch owners but the latter simply became more determined to hold on and fight the thing out.

LYTELL DELIGHTS IN "THE MAN WHO"

Not since John Drew was in his prime on the legitimate stage has the theater seen a light comedy performance given with a suavity and finesse that distinguished Bert Lytell's screen appearance yesterday at the Alhambra theater in 'The Man Who," an adaptation by Arthur Zellner of Lloyd Osborne's Saturday Evening Post story As Beddy Mills the man who tries to break the shoe trust by starting a barefoot movement in the social world. Mr Lytell was a source of constant joy to the discriminating He obtained his effects with economy of method and a subtly artistic restraint, but the effects stirred the risibilities of the audience, which greeted the production with gurgling enthusiasm My Lytell made of Beddy's lovable human being, poignant in his moments of tenderness

BIG PROGRAM AT THE ALHAMBRA THEATER

The Alhambra will give to its patrons starting off with its Sunday program, the greatest array of picture talent ever offered in one week at any playhouse in Newark. On Sunday Frank Mayo in "The Man Who Married His Own Wife" Monday and Tuesday, Dustin Farnum in the William Fox feature 'The Primal Law" On Wednesday 'Deep Waters, a Paramount On Thursday "The Passionate Pilgrim" On Friday 'The Witching Hour" and on Saturday 'The Bronze Bell"

The Sunday program, which includes a comedy "The Skippers Policy," a Toonerville by the way and 'The Man Who Married His Own Wife," is a corker Mr Mayo in a double role, that of O'Hara Marsden and John Morton is at his best. We here pen a Thumb Nail Theme of the story

John Morton, head of the Blue Star Line, thinks that his wife, whom he met in a shipwreck two years before and married after a strange courtship, doesn't love him any more The wreck had left him with a hideous face, and though he had amassed a fortune he saw his beautiful wife more and more in the company of a mental light weight, Freddie Needham. He came to a decision. He put his affairs in the hands of a lawyer and swapped identity with the body of a dead man washed ashore Morton then goes back to his childhood home in Boston and reassumes his real name O'Harra Marsden. He determines to take advantage of his social education he missed when he ran away at sixteen to the sea. The new art of the war, plastic surgery, is called in and his scarred face restored to smoothness. An entirely new man, he goes back to San Francisco to win his wife anew and finds her badly in love with the dead John Morton! Not telling any one who he is, he visits the Blue Star offices and finds the firm near the rocks Dramatically unfolding a picture of a re made soul, the story winds on to a vivid climax.

GREATEST OF PICTURES TO BE SHOWN

"Over the Hill," the picture which is hailed throughout the world of motion pictures as the greatest of them all, will begin a run at the Auditorium theater Sunday, and will continue for 7 days, at least with a high probability of the run being extended indefinitely This remarkable photoplay, produced by William Fox, has been taking the country by storm and is smashing every previous record for continuous runs wherever it is shown It is safe to say that no picture ever shown here has created the interest aroused by "Over the Hill" Local motion picture devotees have been wanting it for many months, and its engagement here is the method Manager Fenberg of the Auditorium theater has taken to keep faith with his patrons, whom he had promised the very best pictures the screen affords

This production does not dazzle the eyes, it does not owe its huge success to the fact that an immense amount of money was spent in its production, but the story is one that goes straight to the heart and makes the spectator live again his childhood days—it takes him back to those golden hours with mother.

TOONERVILLE CAR UNDER MULE POWER

The Skipper of the Toonerville Trolley has been taking a vacation but he's back on the job piloting the trolley that meets all the trains in a new Toonerville Comedy by Fontaine Fox called "The Skipper's Policy" which is to be seen at the Alhambra theater starting Sunday

While the Skipper has been away the important traction system of which he is the operating staff must have been neglected and allowed to run down, for we understand that along part of the line the Skipper now has to operate the trolley by old Missouri mule power

LAST SHOWING OF "THE MILKY WAY."

David Butler, in 'The Milky Way' at the Grand theater today last times is as refreshing as a glass of cold water on a hot day The story has the charm of rural settings to begin with and then moves to the city where the big dramatic situations develop It is a long time since David has been seen in such an excellent picture Everybody, from the authors to the producer seemed to vie in their respective efforts to make it good Louis Burston is the producer, W. S Van Dyke is the director, with the stotry by Lottie Hor[illegible] and Clyde C. Westover, John B. Clymer furnished a smooth-running continuity. A good cast supports David including Margaret Loomis, Fred J. Butler, Phil Ford, R Henry Grey, Irene Hunt and Bert Hadley.

JACKSON GREGORY'S GREATEST WESTERN STORY

Brilliant in characterization, vivid with the life of the open country of the West, "Two Kinds of Women," with Pauline Frederick in the stellar role, stands forth as one of the really big productions released by R C Pictures during the last several months. It is the feature attraction at the Grand theater Sunday and Monday Supporting Miss Frederick in this gripping picturization of Jackson Gregory's novel, "Judith of Blue Ranch," is one of the greatest casts ever assembled for a motion production. Among the well known players are Tom Santschi, who has the leading male role of Bud Lee, Charles Clary, veteran actor who has had many notable roles in films, Otis Harlan, fun maker on the stage and in pictures, Clarisso Selwynne Dave Winter, Jean Calhoun, Jack Curtis, Billy Elmer, Sam Appel, Joseph Singleton and Eugene Pallette Still another outstanding feature is the skillful development of the story under the supervision of Director Colin Campbell

"THE TEN DOLLAR RAISE" AT THE GRAND

Every employer in this city should see J L Frothingham's initial production for Associated Producers 'The Ten Dollar Raise," soon to be shown at the Grand theater If you have a "Wilkins' on your payroll you will learn to appreciate him and [illegible] at he has slaved for, [illegible] he deserves—"the ten [illegible]" which means so little [illegible] so much to him.

"T[illegible] OLD NEST" GRIPS MOST HARDENED CRITICS

People who write or produce motion pictures usually keep their emotions well in check They are so busy watching technical effects that they do not have time to let their emotions run riot. A notable exception to this was made recently, however, when "The Old Nest," which comes to the Gem theater, for two days, commencing Monday was shown to the Goldwyn sales organization that had gathered at the Culver City studios

When the sales managers emerged from the projection room nearly all of them had tears in their eyes. Soon they were seen making their way towards the studio telegraph office It was learned later that nearly every one of them after seeing this picture of mother love had telegraphed to his mother.

CAPELLANI GENIUS IN THE MOTION PICTURE STUDIO

It is traditional to visualize the middle aged music master as a man of temperament who is at the same time a gentleman of exquisite manners unique gentleness and delicate instincts It is not so traditional to picture the instructor on the motion picture "set," commonly known as the 'director," in any such fashion. There are, to be sure, directors and directors but whereas there is here and there a director with a delightful atmosphere of comeraderie about him, or one whose personality exudes a certain dreamy forcefulness that calls for everyone's best, but keeps him a sort of soul apart, there are dozens of directors who give the impression of being just what they often are the "bosses" in the studio Sometimes they even give the idea that they are in charge of a chain gang or something of the kind—so domineering is their manner and so loud their method of securing the result.

The motion picture director is gradually undergoing a process of evolution, even as the motion picture actor and the motion picture scenario writer, and the motion picture production itself have been undergoing. And one of the pioneers of the new species of director—the man who combines personal charm with insight into character, and the ability to use his magnetic personality to obtain results, has been Albert Capellani. He directed 'Sisters' which is at the Rex Sunday Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

ROBINSON CRUSOE AT THE GEM SUNDAY

"The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe" featuring Harry Myers is the star attraction at the Gem Sunday A Century Comedy and a Western drama will also be shown.

"THE PASSIONATE PILGRIM" PICTURE TO BE SHOWN

Vignola and Alfred Liquori did the photography

The photoplay is interpreted by an extremely well selected cast, including Matt Moore, Rubye de Remer Claire Whitney, Julia Swayne Gordon, Frankie Mann and Mary Newcomb, Tom Guise, Van Dyke Brooke, Charles Gerard, Sam J Ryan, Arthur Donaldson, Albert Roccardi, Bernard A Reinold, Charles Brook and Helen Lindroth in the other parts.

A Bible Thought for Today.

THE BEAUTY OF HOLINESS.—Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; bring an offering, and come before him: worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness.—1 Chronicles 16:29.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA ALLIED.

The world was brought up against a new combination of forces when it was announced at the Genoa conference that Russia and Germany had made an alliance for mutual benefit. The government that has gained control of Russia and holds the same by force, abandons the former allies of that people, and seeks the friendship of the former enemy of the democratic countries. The world will ponder a good while as to what this means.

Russia has today the worst government in the world, but that government has a certain power because it is in possession of the world's richest natural resources. It can trade and bargain with the countries whose resources are more nearly exhausted.

When a dreamy and unpractical man inherits a fortune of millions, he has for a time a position in the business world that he could never gain by his own abilities. The Russian soviet government can demand favors from other powers that could never have been in a position to expect, if it had not come into possession of such lavish natural wealth.

America and the powers of western Europe have now to decide whether it is better to let Germany and Russia go ahead and cement this alliance, and permit Germany to go in and reap the wealth of Russia, or whether it is more desirable to swallow the repugnance which one feels for the bloody soviet butchers, and take the risk of dealing with the unscrupulous gang of people now in power.

The people who are asked to sink a lot of money in developing resources of that country, will probably be rather slow about it. They realize that any property they establish there may later be confiscated by these communists, who do not at heart believe in private ownership. Probably American producers will take their part in developing this backward land, but as long as the present gang is in control, they will do well to show extreme caution.

COSTS OF COURTING.

Times and manners have seen a change since middle aged folks were young. In those days, a girl was pleased just to have a young man come to see her. They sat in the parlor ,talked over the doings at the church socials and the dancing school, and had a lovely time. Occasionally Father and Mother dodged in to see how things were going.

A girl considered she was given a treat in those times if she was taken to a 50 cent show in Music Hall or the Opera House, and if afterward they celebrated at the ice cream parlor, that was a nice wind-up. The boys would occasionally blow in $1.50 for a Perry Rank livery team, but that was about the limit of ordinary luxury.

There are still young women brought up somewhat on the old lines in a careful way, and who are not spoiled by having too much attention. Probably they make the best wives. But the majority expect many costly treats. As some girls say: 'If the fellows want to go with us, they have got to spend something besides the evening."

It is remarked in some places, that to entertain a girl properly at a dance a fellow has to spend $10 to $25. The latter figure is extreme but taxi charges and flowers and refreshments mount up fast. At some colleges it is said the wealthier fellows may lay out around $100, when they have a girl attend the "Prom," so that less prosperous students are almost ruled out of these festivities.

Extravagance got a tremendous start through the war when so many fellows earned big pay and threw away dollars as fast as their fathers did nickels. Those times are gone. Parents should urge their young folks to do things in a simple way, and should lead girls to dislike the splurgy ways of a fellow who spends his money without any sense, even if he does it on treats for their benefit.

The "lonesome girl" is said to be a problem, but she can find companionship by going out into the kitchen and helping her mother wash the dishes.

The naval appropriation may not be sufficient to provide the usual maneuvers, but the political maneuvers will take place as usual.

The European powers think they can begin paying their interest, if the United States will lend them some of its gold.

EFFECTIVE REBUTTAL.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Senator McCumber's speech last week introducing to the senate the tariff bill bearing his name made some damaging admissions. He concedes that this is no time to enact legislation making for higher living costs. He recognizes the fact "that of all times in our history this is the very worst time to formulate and put into effect a new tariff measure," but he sees a situation making higher protection essential.

Accordingly he calls on manufacturer and distributor to absorb the higher costs that the pending measure will entail, in order that the prevailing trend of living costs may be maintained. Yet he assures these same groups that the tariff bill is in their interest and that it will enable them to compete more favorably in the world's markets than is possible under the present law.

Applied to specific industries the shoe manufacturers are asked to sell their goods to the retailer at a price no higher than that obtaining at the present time, notwithstanding the fact that the tariff bill now pending will increase substantially the price of the raw material that goes into shoes. Sugar refiners are asked to maintain the price of sugar at its present level when the pending sugar schedule would increase by at least one-fourth the cost to them of the raw product.

Senator McCumber asks for the impossible. During the last two years producers in practically all lines of industry have utilized every posible economy in the interest of lower producing costs. They cannot now absorb a heavy government tax and continue to sell their products to distributors at prevailing prices. If the senate is interested in the maintenance of the prevailing level of living costs it must radically amend certain schedules of the bill. Control over the price of many basic commodities lies in its hands. What the manfacturer has to pay in the way of higher raw material costs must be passed on to the distributor and to the consumer. Senator McCumber's speech in favor of the bill affords opposition an effective argument why it should not be passed until it has been radically amended.

LOWDEN FAVORS LEAGUE.

(Paulding Democrat)

An interview given out at Naples, Italy, by former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, would indicate that he is preparing to contest for the next Republican Presidential nomination with President Harding. He has been making a study at first hand of conditions in several European countries, and his conclusions are in direct conflict with the policies of this administration. He says:

"Many of our problems would be more easily solved if we were a member of the League of Nations. Reconstruction is a world problem. With regard to the Genoa conference, I consider that the United States is making a big mistake by not taking part in it."

When Senator Robinson (Dem., Ark.) had former Governor Lowden's interview read into the Record, the former Illinois executive was handled rather unkindly by Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho) and Norris (Rep., Neb.) the former declarating that the Republican convention made no mistake when it refused to nominate Governor Lowden for President, and the latter intimated that Governor Lowden had been harveyizing when he gave out the interview. Senator Noris said:

"There is a great difference between giving an interview over in Italy and giving one at home. The senator must not forget that we have the prohibition laws in force here, and they do not over there; and that very often adds a great deal to an after-dinner speech, I have been told."

The fact that former Governor Lowden holds the views expressed in his interview is sure to have effect on the Middle West, where his influence is still very great in his own party.

Q. How does the speed of linotype compare with that of a typewriter? E. C. A.

A. The typewriter record for speed maintained for an hour is 131 words a minute, which amounts to 7,860 words per hour. On linotype machines engaged in newspaper work, the amount would be anywhere between 3,500 and 4,000 ems per hour, but would be less on book work, or work involving foreign languages. The word average might be estimated at 750 to 800 words per hour.

Q. Which one of the two states, Florida and Calfornia, is more likely to have a cold spell, and give reasons why? J. McC.

A. The weather bureau says that both of these states are liable to frosts to more or less extent, depending upon the localities. California extends over a wide territory north and south, with many high mountains, which give to it a variety of climate. Florida is located much farther south and has, all told, a much milder climate.

Q. Was Andrew Johnson elected to the senate after he was President? Z. W. C.

A. A retired soldier may live in Europe and receive his pay there. He must apply to the adjutant general's office, and comply with the regulations as to posting address.

Q. At what rate should a baby gain in weight? M. C. F.

A. During the first three months the increase in weight of a normal baby should bem about half a pound each week; by the end of the fifth month the baby that has been perfectly well and is being properly nourished should have doubled its birth weight and weigh about 15 pounds, and at the end of the 15th month it should weigh three times its weight at birth. Infants that are very large at birth do not increase so rapidly.

Q. Was Robert G. Ingersoll a Republican or a Democrat? K. L. D.

A. Robert G. Ingersoll was a Democrat and active in party politics until after the Civil war, when he became a Republican. It was as a delegate to the Republican national convention of 1876 that he made his famous "plumed knight" speech, placing Blaine in nomination for President.

Q. How many miles of navigable rivers are there in the United States? H. McD.

TEST TEMPERATURE OF VALCONIC MOUNTAIN

Hilo, Island of Hawaii.—Boring into the crater of Kilauea, the active volcano that rises on this island, will be begun in May in an effort to ascertain the heat underground in the region of the natural phenomenom and to discover whether it can be turned into industrial channels, it was announced here by the directors of the Hawaiian volcano research association.

A contract has been signed and the work, which will consume approximately six months, will be under the direction of Professor T. A. Jagger, Volcanologist in charge of the Kilauea observatory.

Numerous holes will be bored to various depths on all sides of the Kilauea crater, the great Kau desert to the south, and at a accessible spots on the floor of the crater. It is planned to locate the borings in the lava flows of 1921, 1919, 1918, 1894 and in some more ancient flows, to ascertain whether any of the heat generated by those spectacular disturbances remains underground.

NEW YORK IS BIG FUR CENTER

American Metropolis Wrests Title From Leipsic Since War.

Domestic Furs Now Rival Imported Articles, Experts Say.

(By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.)

New York City, April 29.—The beaver on the shield of the City of New York, which at times has appeared a trifle meaningless, has lately become as appropriate as it was in the old days when the shrewd traders of Nieuw Amsterdam placed it there. For New York now claims to be the center of the world's fur industry.

Before the war, Leipsic enjoyed this prestige, the German city holding virtually a monopoly on the dyeing and dressing of all expensive skins. But this year, with some of Europe's cleverest furriers transferred to New York shops and certain secret processes evidently transferred with them, American furs are rivaling and even surpassing the fine peltries exhibited in the Leipsic market.

Yet this lead is not to be maintained without a struggle. The reputation of the German furriers, whose skill has been famous for centuries, presents a formidable obstacle. Stiff competition is expected not only in the manufacture and sale of the finished skins, but in the control of the raw fur market.

Ever since the war, the American fur trade has unquestionably held the advantage in procuring raw furs, but the recent reentry of Russia into the world's fur business has caused a good deal of uneasiness in New York fur circles. The first blow fell last fall when the Soviet government shipped nine carloads of furs to Leipsic to be sold at auction, to pay for German locomotives and farm implements. It fell with all the greater emphasis because most of the furs were the confiscated property of private firms and individuals, including several Americans. Some of them had come from the palaces of former Russian nobles, while others had been removed from the packs of small fur traders and the large commercial warehouses. Among them were about four million dollars worth of skins belonging to a single American firm. They had been gathered in with fine impartiality by the Soviet government in its process of nationalizing all resources.

"I suppose they demanded even the fur capes and neckpieces from the women in the streets," remarked a New York fur man recently, in explaining how his firm had failed to get its furs out of Russia. "But, I'll say this for them—they're always very polite. They sent all of us invitations to come over to Leipsic and bid on the goods, even if they did happen to be our own. Perhaps they thought we might cherish a sentimental attachment for some of the furs, and they weren't going to be so mean as to stand in the way of our buying them back, if we wanted to.

"The sale last fall was the first. Since then, there have been several. Gradually, the Bolsheviki are getting rid of about $50,000,000 worth of furs. These represent old stock which has been held since the revolution and do not include new skins brought in by Russian trappers. We've got just as good a chance to buy the new furs as the Germans. Our fur scouts are over there now—in Kamchatka and Siberia, and down to the crossroads and village fairs of Mongolia, Manchuria and Persia. These Leipsic boys won't have any cinch, believe me, even if they are so friendly with the Bolsheviki. Besides, we have the great fur resources of Canada and Alaska to draw from on the continent here at home.

"The fur trade today," he continued with enthusiasm, "is about as exciting sport as it was in the old days when the Hudson's Bay company was busy forcing its way through the American wilderness. The only difference is that now the company's scouts are charging across the Bering sea and invading the wilderness of another continent. There's just as much risk and thrill as there ever was—piracy on the high seas, poaching in the seal rookeries, Indians robbing caches and traders starving, trappers freezing to death on a lost trail, and others growing moderately rich overnight from the pelt of some wonderful silver fox."

Last summer, the fur dealer related, a friend of his, a young tenderfoot of 18 or 19, went to the Tanana valley in Alaska, to try to find a gold mine. He had studied geology in high school, and he believed he knew how to hunt one. But he was unsuccessful. Finally he gave up the attempt and outfitted to spend the winter in the wilderness. He "just wanted to see the country," he told his disapproving friends, who tried their best to argue him out of the idea. That was in the fall, and they did not see him again until February. But when he appeared he caused the sensation of the year by bringing 23 pelts of silver black foxes with him. He made $10,000 on that one trapping expedition.

"Yes," mused the fur dealer sadly, "if I were only a young man, you wouldn't find me here in New York. I would be up in the north country making a new fortune. Furs have never been anywhere nearly worth what they are today—why, only a fair silver fox pelt will bring from $350 to $500 on the edge of the trapping country—and the demand is simply immense. There has never been anything like it before.

"Years ago, the Hudson's Bay company thought it was doing a fine business if it made $500,000 in a year. Today, even a little fox ranch on Prince Edward island will sell for $100,000. In the height of the boom, $27,000,000 worth of pelts were sold in 10 days at the St. Louis auction, and millions of dollars worth of furs are sold every time we have an auction in New York, which is about three times a year."

It was not until the time of the World's Columbia exposition in Chicago that the great demand for furs started in this country. Before that, they had been worn only by the very wealthy. In that year, however, came the vogue of the puffed sleeve, and with it the first widespread use of fur trimming. Since then, the demand has grown by leaps and bounds until today practically every fur-bearing animal on the earth is being called upon to supply it. Rabbits are being slaughtered by the millions for "coney" and French seal; Russia's shaggy little horses are being turned into pony coats, and even the alley cat is disappearing at a rapid rate as the furriers become more and more proficient in their art.

"We have learned from Europe to imitate," said our friend, the fur dealer, "so that the furs of the animals of warmer climates, which are less difficult to procure than those of the north, can be used to great profit. Remodeled rabbit can be sold for ermine, or remodeled muskrat as seal at 10 times the original value. In our laboratories (for the modern fur shop is really a laboratory) the opossum, the marmot, raccoon, Manchurian dog—aye, even the goat—can be worked up into products that look nothing like the original. People, as a rule, do not know much about furs, and it is easy to sell dyed hare for sable or fox; marmot as mink or sable, and dyed goat as bear of various kinds.

"The manufacturing processes, in fact, are now as important to the business as the raw materials. The New York trade is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars and using raw furs by the thousands in experiments. Some of these have failed, but others have brought fine results—beautiful, silky peltries that can't be equaled in Europe. Raw fur may be fine enough, but its true beauty is brought out only in skillful dyeing and dressing. In making a mole coat for instance, the skins are subjected to 5,400 processes.

"Before the war, our American furriers had much to learn concerning the treatment of skins. Well, they have learned it. We no longer stand in awe of the greater genius of Europe. Let Leipsic do its best, the headquarters of the fur industry will remain here in New York. You will see."

FRUIT IN U. S. IS WORTH 525 MILLIONS IN '21

Washington, April 29.—The total value of fruit and fruit products on farms in 1921 was $525,000,000 as compared with $744,000,000 in 1920 and the local charge will be dropped ment of agriculture announced yesterday. The decline is attributed to killing frosts early in 1921 and to lower prices. Production of apples in 1921 was only 96,881,000 bushels as compared with 223,677,000 in 1920. Peaches dropped from 45,620,000 bushels in 1920 to 32,733,000 in 1921 and pears from 16,805,000 to 10,705,000 There was a slight increase in production of oranges at 30,700,000 boxes.

> Have you noticed how Mr. Solar has avoided the use of too-technical terms in his description of the home-made receiving set? He has also avoided explanations of the theory of radio. His object is not to explain WHY a radio receiving set works, but to tell HOW you can build one that will work. You are not muddled with a hundred "reasons why."

This tuning coil has the same capacity as coil No. 1 which was described, but it can be made at much less expense. The wire used is the only material that need be purchased.

An ordinary oatmeal or cereal box is used for the core of the coil instead of the round piece of wood required for coil No. 1. The box required for coil No. 1 The box should be perfectly dry. If the coil is wound on a damp box, the wires will loosen when the box becomes dry, for it will shrink.

Remove the top and bottom of the box before you wind the wire. Tack wooden discs in the ends of the tube. These may be sawed to shape with a coping saw.

The next thing to make is the wooden frame to hold the coil. This needs no explanation here, for the drawing gives the size of the parts and showls clearly how they are assembled,

The sliders are made of wire and slide on the wooden rods connected to the uprights of the frame.

Wind the coil in the same way that coil No. 1, described yesterday, was wound.

Place strong rubber bands in the screw eyes at the ends of the uprights. These keep the points of the sliders in close contact with the coil. Scrape the insulation from the coil where the slide points touch it.

Instead of "hooking" to one end of each slider rod as was directed in the making of coil No. 1, hook to the eye in the slider wire itself. In an article to come complete directions for "hooking up" the entire set will be given.

Stain, shellac or varnish the wooden parts of the instrument.

Bright Clothes For Playtime

Never in all history have children had so much fun as they do today, so much play, so many fascinating playthings, and—last but by no means least, such adorable and comfortable play clothes.

If the great-great-grandparents of today's kiddies could return to earth they would be as much amazed by the goings-on in the nursery as by the radio-telephones.

Children no longer live to be seen and not heard, to do their little stints and learn their little catechism. Romping and rompers are firmly established in our national life.

The old notion that only light pink and blue were suitable for little people when white was not worn has happily passed. Colors both delicate and strong have been much featured for children for some seasons. But this spring Pontings, a smart Kensington shop, has sponsored what they call "jazz designs" in children's wear, these in the brightest of colors, usually in cretonne or sturdy prints. There is no doubt that rompers of such amusing fabrics will make a great hit with the children as well as their parents and adoring aunts.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Merle Marshall was hostess to the Hetuck Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on Friday afternoon at her home in West Locust street.

Mrs. John Tucker read a paper on the Scotch-Irish in America; Mrs. E. L. Morrison sang two numbers, "Kilarney," and "Dinna Ask Me"; Mrs. Anna Fields Stoltz accompanied the soloists.

The assistant hostesses were Mrs. Jennie Stewart, Mrs. R. L. Verner, Mrs. A. E. Best, and Miss Emma Lisey. Refreshments were served to forty-five guests.

ORANGE SALAD.

Cut the oranges in half between the stem and seed and loosen the pulp as with grapefruit. Dip each bit of the flesh into mayonnaise and return to its place. Add a little of the dressing and some ground nuts on top. Serve with sandwiches of tea cakes.

Put the lemon you wish to keep under a glass. This keeps the skin from getting hard.

SOCIAL EVENTS MUST BE REPORTED EARLY.

To insure social events being printed the day they are sent to the office, they must be in the office by eleven o'clock. It is requested that all events be reported the day after they occur, or in case of weddings, the same day. Events for the social calendar are requested several days ahead of the event.

An afternoon musical tea with a program under the auspices of the Lancaster Twentieth Century Reading circle realized $50 for charity. The program was furnished by the various clubs of the city.

Three speakers has so far this year addressed the Woman's City club at Portsmouth, the speakers being Miss Lucia B. Johnson of Columbus; Judge Ben B. Lindsay of Denver, and Representative Simeon D. Fess of Yellow Springs. This club is working now to have an avenue of trees planted between Portsmouth and Columbus and is trying to interest all clubs along the proposed route in a co-operation plan of planting.

The City Federation of Piqua, through its president, Mrs. Allen L. Marshall chairman of entertainment, civics and welfare committees, in co-operation with School Superintendent G. C. Dietrick and the director of music, Philip P. Gates of the public schools, has planned a series of civic concerts. One concert has been given, the talent being taken from the school organizations. It was a splendid success. Other concerts are to follow the last of each month, the talent to be drawn from the civic organizations and trained by Mr .Gates. Through the interest aroused by the first concert, a demand has already been made for a Symphonic orchestra in Piqua.

Miss Genevive Cline of Cleveland, chairman of the state federation's legislative committee, addressed a very interesting meeting of the Hyperion club at Nelsonville a short time ago, the meeting being held in the Presbyterian church. Her topic was "Women in Politics." Club women from Athens and Logan and members of the Cosmopolitan and the Woman's Community clubs of Logan attended as guests, among the honored guests being Mrs. E. D. Sayre, of Athens, vice president of the Southeast district. A reception followed at the home of Mrs. N. Hill, president of the Hyperion club. This club is twenty-five years old It placed scales in three public school buildings this year and furnished money for the serving of milk to the children under weight, but as the serving of milk in the schools proved self-supporting the club took the money it would have donated in this way and gave it toward the purchase of a coupe for the use of the public health nurse.

Anti-Corset Craze Dismays Corsetiers

Chicago, April 29.—A save-the-corset symposium of the Chicago Corset club revealed yesterday that only 55 per cent of women wear corsets, according to Rose Hey, secretary of the club's ways and means committee. Mme. Alla Ripley, president of the Fashionable Art League of America, said more and more women were giving up corsets.

"To tell the truth, I don't know a young girl who wears one," she said. The club is composed of manufacturers, salesmen and designers of corsets.

ADD SALT.

Add a pinch of salt to the egg whites if you would have them beat quickly.

In the future no accounts of social events will be used unless the full name, which means the first name or initials as well as the family name, is used.

CHAPTER XXVI
MATCH-MAKING

"Take me home tonight, Bart!" I demanded before the reheasal. "Jack's gone to Mrs. Herod's—he intends to call for me, but I'll phone him not to, if you'll walk with me. I must talk with you, Bart!"

And so under a white moon, we strolled slowly homeward. And although I am a married woman, violently in love with my husband, I own that Bart seemed to enjoy our walk.

"You've got to help me, Bart," I explained. "Bonny musn't be allowed to run around with Bradshaw any more. Of course she has no end of admirers, boys of her own age and college men, but she only tolerates them. She isn't in love with George, but just daffy about him, he's fascinated her—!' '—like —a serpent!"

"Do I gather that you expect me to cut in?"

"You do!" And maybe she'll fall in love with you, Bart!" I gasped, for I had come close to telling him that Bonny was in love with him.

"Great Eros! You know I loathe flappers!"

"Also I know her father is worth two millions!"

Bart's sigh was prolonged and despairing.

"You girls! Money—money! You Peggins! Like the rest! I never supposed you'd join the money-mad crowd!"

"Of course I expect Jack to be rich some day," I asserted calmly. "I'm not ashamed of the idea, not a bit. But that has nothing to do with Bonny. You never look at her. It's time you did. Mr. Tearle is exactly George Bradshw's idea of a father-in-law. But he knows the Tearles never will let him have Bonny. And so he'll just coax the child along, feed her on high-brow radicalism about love, develop her ideas of individual liberty, and the rights of lovers—and then some day they'll elope! Isn't that an awful prospect?"

"I should say that any girl who'd elope with that sport ought to get what's coming to her."

"No—not Bonny! Underneath her affectations, she pure gold. And the only daughter. I owe it to Mr. Tearle to keep Bonny out of mischief if I can."

"But you can't, Peg. That's the trouble with all the flappers, they will not listen to older girls who know."

"I agree. They keep their ears open only to the bunk you men fill them with!"

A whistle from Bart, then:

"You score, Peggins!"

"Bonny will listen to you, Bart!"

"Rescuing fair maidens in distress is my amusement—on the stage only!" he protested. Nevertheless he agreed to consider my proposition solely as a favor to me.

My husband was letting himself into our apartment when I reached the door. The men greeted and parted with their customary friendliness.

But Jack did not refer to the play, nor the rehearsal, nor to Bart after we entered our suite. Perhaps because I chattered so.

I explained why I had wanted to talk with Bart, what I had planned about Bonny, and then I tried to make him talk about his evening with Mrs. Herrod. But talk he would not about her.

For the first time I imagined that Jack didn't like to have me walk with a handsome man in the moonlight. I began to suspect that there was a flaw somewhere in the working of our fine theory.

Two Women Tell How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped Their Suffering

Iron Mountain, Mich.—"I had terrible pains every month and at times had to go to bed on account of them. I saw your advertisement and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with very good results. I can work all day long now at my sick time. You may use these facts as a testimonial and I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. A. [illegible] GARLAND, 218 E. Brown St., Iron Mountain, Michigan.

Xenia, Ohio.—"Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of my abdomen that I could not lie quietly in bed. I suffered for about five years that way and I was not regular either. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women, so I decided to try it. It surely has helped me a lot, as I have no pains now and am regular and feeling fine."—Mrs. MARY DALE, Route 7, Xenia, Ohio.

If you suffer as did Mrs. Garland or Mrs. Dale, you should give this well-known medicine a thorough trial.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM

I am eighty-three years old I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 50 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change." You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by takng treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of the Advocate wishes "The Inner Mystery of Rheumatism" overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. Swimming Girls Making Big Splash in the World of Sports

By MARTHA COMAN.

Last Ten Years Sees Remarkable Advance of Sex in Speed and Distance Racing as Well as Diving---Little Girls as Well as Young Women Gain Aquatic Honors

WOMEN are making a big splash in the world's swimming pool. Almost daily some aquatic achievement is chronicled and sets the public marvelling at its daughters, and the thought has recently crossed more than one serious mind that men had best look to their laurels if they are to escape having the highly prized crown of glory snatched from their brows.

It is hardly fair, perhaps, to catalogue these mermaids as women except for the purpose of sex distinction. Many of the year's record breakers have barely entered their teens, and the foremost among these athletic young persons is still under 20. That's a situation for some of the old pessimists who don't believe in sports for women to contemplate.

All these facts go to show that swimming is particularly suited to girls. They take to the sport like the proverbial duck, not the ponderous farm reared variety that waddles down to a brook for provender, but like the wild creature that rides for hours on the crest of waves or skims gracefully over a smooth lake surface, occasionally making a clean cut dive or soaring into the air to drop again upon the dappled blue waves.

The modern young woman is this type of creature. She has achieved her water education in less than a generation; one might almost put it at a decade. Two decades ago it was a rare thing to find more than half a dozen really expert women swimmers at a watering place. Then onlookers watched with interest and curiosity when a girl actually swam more than half a dozen strokes. She was the exception, not the rule.

Now it isn't a matter of her being able to swim that attracts attention to the modern girl, but rather whether she can swim as well as her brother or better.

Where floats several hundred yards out from the sandy beach used to be monopolized by accomplished youths, they are now shared by attractive mermaids. And it might be mentioned right here that the mermaids do not often tag along behind their male companions on the swim out to the raft. Sometimes they have been seen to call out the very best that the youths can offer in speed and perfect form.

Have Made Rapid Advance in Art Within the Last Ten Years

It's a long stride—or stroke, to be technical—that these girls have made in a comparatively short time. Boys used to have it pretty much their own way at the seashore or mountain lake resort. And they pursued a tantalizing and teasing programme that may have had something to do with the sudden spurt the feminine swimmer has made in getting herself thoroughly accustomed to aquatic exercises.

The mischievous brother's greatest moment of the day was when he succeeded in ducking sister or sister's school chum, or diving suddenly and upsetting her by seizing her by the ankles. His accomplishment was greeted with screams of laughter and splashes of helplessness. Now the young man who attempts a similar attack is more than likely to find himself unceremoniously poised on his head in six feet of water or dragged down spluttering until he is glad to call "quits."

The law of self-preservation was never more strictly followed than in this particular realm, and it's a wise young man who now attempts any tricks unless he is willing to take his punishment good humoredly.

As for distance swimming, the world is beginning to learn that woman does very well in these contests. She is seriously coming forward as man's rival in this field of sport. She has learned the trudgeon crawl perfectly and is as much at home in the water as any college youth.

One of the most picturesque and satisfactory of the recent swimming events for girls, one which has startled the public out of its belief that however attractive and earnest women may be in an athletic sport they can never quite equal men, was the race from Point Breeze, L. I., to the Brighton Beach Baths, a distance of approximately three and a half miles. Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey, who is just 19 years of age, was the victor, and is now permitted to add to her already notable list of titles and trophies the women's national long distance swimming championship.

That in itself is a noteworthy triumph. But there is another phase to the race which emphasizes the increasing number of really excellent girl swimmers we have and their amazing youth. It has been said that they hardly master the trick of creeping before they begin to crawl through the surf. And still another astonishing feature of the young women's race was the fact that twenty-five experts competed for the title.

Race Drew Twenty-five Competitors Who Spent Hour at Swimming

Think of being able to call out twenty-five mermaids, each and all qualified to enter such a race! Nothing like it could have happened a dozen years ago. There wouldn't have been that number of water nymphs on this side of the Atlantic or on this continent who could keep active in the water for that length of time. Miss Bleibtrey made it in 56 minutes and 27 seconds. Such is the progress made in the most beneficial and healthful of outdoor sports.

According to the official timekeeper Miss Bleibtrey cut almost more than a minute and a half off the record established nearly ten years ago by Miss Elaine Golding, who was considered at that time the last word in distance swimming for women. Miss Golding's record was pronounced remarkable, just as Miss Bleibtrey's is now considered an admirable victory.

In ten years, so has the feminine swimmer developed, it is easy to clip a record. In another decade Miss Bleibtrey's record of to-day may be trimmed down by an equal figure, and a score of years hence the world may see women actually abreast of the best men swimmers.

Miss Bleibtrey, the flaxen haired member of the New York Women's Swimming Association, has attained the distinction of being called the foremost woman swimmer in the world. It is an enviable position she occupies at the age of 19. She has already to her credit several Olympic honors, not to mention various other swimming honors. When she stepped out of the water at Brighton Beach at the end of the interesting race she turned to see her closest opponent, Miss Charlotte Boyle, 100 yards behind. That was tremendous satisfaction to the victor, for Miss Boyle is a splendid swimmer. She came in only one minute and thirty seconds behind the winner and only four seconds behind the record time established by Miss Golding in 1912.

Miss Boyle, who was an Olympic team member, is more conspicuous in short speed races. During the summer she created a new world's record for the 150 yard dash at the Brighton Beach pool. Her time was one minute, forty-nine and four-fifths seconds, which is three and four-fifths seconds better than the record of the former world's champion, Miss Hilda James of Liverpool, England, who raced it in one minute, fifty-three and three-fifths seconds.

The third to finish was Miss Margaret Woodbridge of the Detroit Athletic Club, who came in 150 yards behind the winner and was crawling in excellent form.

The twenty-five nymphs in the recent distance race ranged in age from 10 to 13. This fact alone is astounding, and all but one completed the entire course. One of the 10-year-olds gave up midway and was taken to the finish in a boat. But several of the other girls of just ten summers brought fame and glory to their sex by battling with the waves and making really commendable time.

Among these was Miss Kathryn Brown of the New York Women's Swimming Association, who pluckily fought her way to eighth place at the finish line. In her own class she was pronounced a victor and received as great an ovation as Miss Bleibtrey. To the 10-year-olds went the real honors that day.

Miss Helen Briscoe, aged 13, though far down the line, was by no means last, and when she slipped out of the water at Brighton Beach she showed no effects of the long, hard pull.

That twenty-four out of the twenty-five entrants completed the three and a half mile course speaks volumes for their regard for and interest in the water sport, and it draws attention to the special qualifications of women for swimming. One wonders if they are not approaching the time when they will run a close race with young men and boys of equal age. The only way to find that out would be to have a mixed contest and then discover which has the greatest staying powers.

Experts will tell you that while nature endowed men with greater physical strength she was considerate in bestowing upon women remarkable powers of endurance. Nowhere does this attribute show to greater advantage than in swimming.

Endurance of the Weaker Sex Offsets Greater Physique of Men

It is admitted by scientists and physical culture experts that women have certain advantages in the water sport. A subcutaneous layer of fat serves as an insulation against cold, and their body structure is lighter. What the slim curved body of the mermaid lacks in power it adds, therefore, in quickness of movement and in endurance.

Then consider diving as it is adapted to women and girls. No one will deny that any feminine diver presents a far more interesting picture than a man as he prepares to leap from the springboard. A woman presents beauty and grace, but that is not all the points in her count. She is often just as good a diver as a man.

You have only to watch little Miss Aileen Riggin, an Olympic champion, do a swan dive at the Brighton Beach pool to be confirmed in this belief that women stand apart from men in the art of diving. Miss Riggin is a diver first and a distance swimmer second, and her arrival fifth in line from Point Breeze on the day of the girls' marathon was considered excellent. She trailed along happily behind Miss Helen Wainwright, a fifteen-year-old member of the New York Women's Swimming Association.

To go back to Miss Bleibtrey's swimming honors, it may be mentioned that during the summer she captured the fifty yard national championship to add to her string of brilliant achievements.

All these girls, who serve to illustrate the rapid headway the sex is making in swimming proficiency, are Americans. Recently a Danish girl, Miss Mille Gade, arrived from her native land to have a try for American swimming honors. She came with all sorts of medals and honors, including the highly prized Carnegie hero medal, and allied herself with the Harlem Y. W. C. A. as swimming instructor.

Miss Gade's first spectacular feat was to swim around Manhattan Island, a distance of some forty miles. While she did not succeed in making a record, she showed rare power and endurance and proved herself a worthy contestant in all distance events. Her next swimming venture was to stroke her way from Albany to New York, some 150 miles.

Another remarkable example of the strength of girl swimmers is seen in the recent exploit of Miss Marion Goebel, a Washington Irving High School pupil, who swam across Long Island Sound at College Point, and, not content with this daring test of nerve and strength, the fifteen-year-old girl returned to the starting point towing a canoe containing three persons. The weight of the canoe and the occupants totalled around 520 pounds, which Miss Goebel managed to handle easily by means of a harness fitted over her back and around her waist.

Last year she performed the difficult feat of swimming three miles with her hands and feet shackled. Previous to that test she swam a distance of six miles in the Sound with her hands tied behind her back. Miss Goebel is the daughter of L. Goebel, the coach of the Morningside Athletic Club girl swimmers.

New York has developed more women champions than any other city, swimming record compilers state. This city has held the national team championship for seven consecutive seasons, and it stands alone in Olympic honors. Members of the New York Women's Swimming Association were responsible for the capturing of eighteen of the twenty-seven points with which the United States won the Olympic swimming championships at the last big international meet.

Indoor Pools Prove Popular, Even on the Coldest Days

When the outdoor swimming season is closed there are numerous indoor pools where girls may continue their practice for speed and endurance. Already these centres have proved so popular that on the coldest of winter days swimming enthusiasts stand in line for a long time waiting their turn at the pool. There are never enough pools to accommodate all the enthusiasts, but each year, as the sport grows in favor, their number is increased.

The right age at which one should teach a child its first swimming strokes does not depend on any hard and set rule, swimming experts assure us. The younger the better, they say, adding that the notion that a child under six should not go near the water is now considered old fashioned. At the age of three and a half years girls learn to keep themselves afloat in a swimming pool, and even acquire good strokes. Boys learn earlier, generally speaking, apparently inheriting a fearlessness of the water.

After all, the crawl, which is considered one of the most difficult strokes for a grown person to master, particularly if he or she has been brought up on the breast and side strokes, comes as naturally to children as creeping does.

It is not unusual for instructors, after giving a child out of the pool a fair idea of the sequence of swimming strokes, to drop the youngster into the shallow end and suggest that he crawl back. Not infrequently this mite of humanity manages to do it, somewhat after the fashion of an animal, and you see that it is instinctive with him.

That's the beginning for him, and when followed up by perfecting the stroke the child has laid a solid foundation for a swimming career.

Great War Taught Value of Wood And Urgent Need of Reforestation

NOT until the United States sent 2,000,000 of her sons to France was the importance of forestry appreciated as it relates to war. The greatest forestry lesson in the history of the world was taught in the camps and on the firing lines. "It would not be a difficult thing to convince any member of the A. E. F. that wood is a vital part of the national defence and indispensable in the achievement of victory in war," said a member of the faculty of the New York State College of Forestry at the Cranberry Lake summer camp recently.

It would be impossible to defend ourselves against military attack without forests as it would be without powder. Our record as an undefeated nation could not have been attained without trees and plenty of them. As much as any other agency trees have won and have maintained our independence. What would the Allies have done if France had not conserved her forests and long ago planted her denuded lands with trees?

The bridges, the batons, the trussing and buttresses of the trenches and dugouts, the barracks, the great warehouses, the fires that warmed the billets and hospitals and over which the army food was cooked, the railroad ties, telegraph poles, entanglement stakes, camouflage, pickets, docks, corduroy roads and cars and ships, all were products of the forest.

A ton and a half of wood was used for every American soldier that went over seas. More than 450,000,000 board feet of timber and more than 650,000 cords of fuel wood had to be produced. In the St. Mihiel offensive 70,000,000 board feet of timber were needed every thirty days. About thirty-one thousand men in the American army were employed in connection with the manufacture and supply of these great quantities of wood in France. Twenty-seven large mills and sixty small mills were cutting 2,000,000 board feet of lumber every day at the time the armistice was signed. With these facts in mind every American purely as a matter of patriotism should become a forest conservation fan for life.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

LEGAL POINTS FOR AUTOMOBILE OWNER

(By SAMUEL WANT.)

In a recent Georgia case a reckless motorist learned that the refinements of the law play havoc with the popular conception of the cost of subordinating the safety of pedestrians to the transient pleasures of speeding and of other species of violations of the rules of common sense and law relating to the operation of motor vehicles. The pedestrian injured in this case was a married man. His injuries did not appear to be serious, and he claimed only $500 as damages. While his suit was still pending in court he died. His wife was appointed to administer upon his estate and she prosecuted the damage suit to a conclusion for the benefit of the estate. A verdict for $50 was obtained, and the amount was paid to the wife as administratrix.

Subsequently the wife brought suit against the motorist on her own account. She claimed that her husband had died as a result of the automobile accident, and she demanded damages for her cansequent loss of the support and companionship of her spouse. The motorist's defense was that only one suit at law can be brought for the same cause, and he insisted that the damages paid by him in the first suit discharged his liability for the accident. As the court pointed out, however, liability for an accident extends to all natural consequences of it. The first suit was solely for the benefit of the injured husband. Upon his death his claim was an asset of his estate. His widow's claim for her loss did not accrue until his death. Hence it could not be barred by the settlement in the first suit.

The forfeiture provisions of the state laws relating to the unlawful transportation of liquor by automobile continue to be featured in the decisions of many states. In Alabama this class of litigation has taken the lead over such former favorites as divorce cases, murder trials and the like, and in other southern states it has attained equal prominence, though competing with perhaps a less vicious line of outstanding litigation. One of the very latest decisions comes from the supreme court of Georgia. In this case an automobile was loaned by its owner to his son to be used as a jitney. The son took out a jitney license in his own name and retained all of the proceeds of his business. The car was impounded by the sheriff and found to contain a large quantity of whiskey. Proceedings were instituted for the forfeiture of the car, and the father interposed his claim of ownership of the machine, contending that he had no knowledge of the unlawful use made of it. The father's claim was sustained by the court and the machine was ordered returned to him. Of course, the claim of the prosecuting authorities was that under the above facts it was only reasonable to assume that the father had full knowledge of the use being made of his car, if, indeed, he had retained any interest in the car at all. But the court refused to draw this inference.

Installment contracts and chattle mortgages covering automobiles usually contain provision entitling the creditor to declare the whole indebtedness due at any time, and to retake the care if the full amount due is not immediately paid, where he reasonably believes that the debtor is causing or permitting the value of the car as security to become imparied, by improper use or abuse of the same. In construing such a provision the courts require a strict adherence to the terms of the agreement. If the creditor retakes the car without reasonable cause, or, having reasonable cause, fails to demand payment of his debt before retaking, his act is unlawful, and he may be held liable in damages. This was decided very recently by the Court of Civil Appeals of Texas.

Among the classes of debts which are not obliterated by a discharge in bankruptcy, are those arising from the commission of wilful and malicious injuries. In a recent Georgia case a motorist secured a discharge in bankruptcy after an accident in which his car collided head-on with another car. According to the dissenting opinion filed by one of the judges, the evidence showed that the motorist in question and another were approaching in their cars from opposite directions; that the former held his course near the middle of the road although there was ample room for him to turn out and a suitable roadbed on his right; that his car was much larger than the other; and that after the accident, he continued on wthout stopping.

A majority of the court, without discussing the matter, held that these facts do not show a wilful and malicious injury so as to save the injured motorist's claim from the bankruptcy discharge.

NASH SIX DEMONSTRATES ECONOMY IN SIX DAY NON-STOP RUN

With its hood sealed and carrying official observers who kept accurate check on its consumption of gasoline and water, a Nash Six five passenger touring car finished a six-day non-stop run at Peoria, Illinois, covering 2,801 miles, with an average gasoline consumption of 22.23 miles per gallon.

The records show that with the exception of the water placed in the radiator at the start, none was added during the entire run. Most of the time the car carried its full quota of five passengers. The run took the car over rough roads and hills in the country within a radius of one hundred miles of Peoria.

"While the performance was a demarkable demonstration of what a good motor car will do" said Mr. Scheidler of the Scheidler-Nash agency, 5 South Fifth street, "It was not surprising to those most familiar with Nash construction. It merely emphasizes the confidence that is placed in the dependable and economical performance of the Nash Six."

The Scheidler-Nash agency is prepared to give you full particulars regarding Nash cars and trucks and will demonstrate at your convenience.

CONSCIENCE TROUBLES MAN FOR OLD CRIME

Columbus, April 29.—His conscience, that "wouldn't let him eat nor sleep" led to the confession here today by E. H. Fiedler, 62 years of age, resident of Grandview, a suburb, that he set fire to his bakery at Plain City about 15 years ago. "My conscience wouldnt let me hold it any longer," he told police Lieutenant O'Connor, the latter said.

"I was a little in debt at the time," his confession ran, the police said, "but not any more so than the average business man. I wanted some cash. What possessed me to set fire to the building, I cannot say.

"I was paid $700 insurance and started in business again at the same location.

"Then I came here, I joined a church. It was last Easter that the awfulness of the thing possessed me, and I began to pray about it. Don't think I am crazy, for I prayed the right way. From then on my conscience would not let me sleep. I would sit at the table with my wife and I couldn't eat. I would gulp my food down and leave as soon as I could."

Y CANVASS WILL BE CONTINUED NEXT WEEK

The reorganization of the Y. M. C. A. financial canvass teams will result in order to complete the raising of $11,ttn, to carry on a well rounded program for the next two years

The fact that the workers are receiving a very cordial reception on the part of the public toward the Y. M. C. A. makes the reorganization a logical step.

It was foreseen that with a large organization it would take a short time to cover the territory, but with a small organization it would take much longer than the three days set for the canvass.

Despite the fact that financial conditions in general seem tight, the average contribution this year to the Y. M. C. A. is larger than the average contribution of last year.

The luncheon today noon is the last in the regular campaign, instead of last night as was originally announced. Plans for carrying on the solicitation will be evolved by the campaign group today noon and announcement made later.

RAIL MEN LAID OFF.

Gallipolis, April 29.—Announced by the railroad as necessary to reduce expenses, 30 employes of the Kanawha and Michigan railroad between Point Pleasant, Ohio, and Charleston, W. Va., were laid off indefinitely today.

Boston Wool Market.

Boston, April 29—The Commercial Bulletin today says: "The market for wool has become more excited during the last week and buying has been broadened out in the west materially. Of most interest perhaps, to the trade, is the sale of the Jericho, Utah pool of some 800,000 pounds, the price for which is reported to have been forty cents or a clean landed cost at Boston of close to $1.15. Other sales through the west have been made on a low basis and the price suggests that the wool may have been bought for manufacturers account. In the Boston market there has been considerable activity although the net sales to mills have been only fair and prices show an upward tendency. At the mill little change is reported."

Wall Street.

New York, April 29.—Opening prices in todays stock market indicated further retirement of the short interest and an extension of yesterday's general rally. Oils, rails, steels and coppers were the strongest features. Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Mexican Petroleum and Texas company rose one to three points. Wheeling and Lake Erie common and preferred gained one and 1 1-2 points respectively. Bethlehem steel and American Smelting averaged one point gains.

National Biscuit was strongest of the specialties, adding three points to yesterdays brisk rise. American sugar, Corn Products and Industrial Alcohol responded moderately to further buying.

Under leadership of special issues, chiefly oils, coppers and independent steels, today's brief stock market recorded further recoveries from the moderate reaction of the midweek. Extreme advances among oils, notably Standard Oil of New Jersey and Associated Oil of California, ran from one to almost five points. Anaconda, Endicott and American Smelting gained one to two points. Bethlehem, Gulf States, Lackawanna and Vanadium Steels rose one to 1 1-2. Equipments, motor specialties and tobacco, leather and chemical issues also strengthened. The railway group was not especially prominent in the movement. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 750,000 shares.

Chicago Produce.

Chicago, April 29.—Butter lower; creamery extras 39; firsts 34 1-2@38; seconds 31 1-2@34; standards 38.

Chicago Grain Review.

Chicago, April 29.—Wheat displayed considerable firmness during the early trading today. The market opened strong, declined slightly then rallied. The strength in Liverpool was said to be the main bullish influence. Sentiment among the traders here is decidedly mixed with the belief that fluctuations in wheat will be rapid because of general evening up, as Monday is the fist delivery day on May contracts. Initial quotations which ranged from unchanged to 1c higher with May 1.42 1-4 to 1.43 1-4 and July 1.27 to 1.27 1-8 were followedby slight declines then somewhat of a rally.

Corn and oats were somewhat unsettled with scattered liquidation in the May deliveries. After starting unchanged to 1-4 lower; July 65 1-8 to 65 3-8, the corn market scored light general gains.

Oats opened unchanged to 1-4 dowkn July 40 1-8 to 40 1-4 and then hovered about yesterdays close. Higher quotations in hogs were responsible for firmer provisions with a fair trade.

The Denison baseball schedule shows home games for May 5 with Ohio university, May 12, Ohio State; May 23, Otterbein; on May 25 Ohio Wesleyan; June 13, Alumni.

Services in St. Luke's church Sunday will be conducted at 7 o'clock p. m. The Kenyon college choir of 25 voices will furnish the music.

THEFT OF 25 AUTOS REVEALED BY ARREST

Cincinnati, April 29.—The theft of 25 automobiles in Cleveland and the sale of 17 or more of them in Cincinnati was disclosed by the police yesterday upon the arrival of Detective Joseph Doran from Cleveland. Last Saturday Detectives McShane and Hayes arrested Joseph Delaney of Cincinnati on the charge of receiving stolen goods. It was alleged that he had in his possession an automobile which was the property of Samuel B. Jacobs of Cleveland. Delaney made disclosures, the police say, that resulted in the arrest of C. W. Wade under the name of Thomas O'Connor in Cleveland. According to the police, Wade, or O'Connor represented himself as a dealer in used cars which he claimed he obtained fhom insurance companies as a result of accidents. The police say that the 25 cars were driven from Cleveland to Cincinnati and sold. Delaney, Wade, charged drove several of them. A warrant was issued in Cleveland against Delaney charging him with the theft of automobiles and the local charge will be dropped. A dealer in used cars in this city bought the machines in good faith and sold them believing that Wade was all that he represented himself to be.

The detectives were given the names of all the persons who bought the automobiles and they will have to stand the financial loss as the machines will be returned to their proper owners.

M. E. BISHOP HERE SUNDAY

Will Visit Each of Three Methodist Churches During Day — Union Service at First Church.

Bishop W. F. Anderson of the Methodist church will visit Newark tomorrow, appearing in the three Methodist churches.

He will be at the East Main Street M. E. church at 9:15 a.m.; at the Neal Avenue church at 10:30 a.m. and at the First Methodist church at 7:30 p.m.

The evening service at the First M. E. church will be a union meeting of the three Methodist churches. A special program of musical numbers has been arranged for this event.

Sam Gelfer of the Auditorium orchestra will render a violin solo. Miss Edith Hague will sing a vocal solo and the vested choir will render an anthem.

These services have been planned to give the Bishop a thorough understanding of the need and opportunity of Newark from a church standpoint. The Newark Methodist churches have received the endorsement of the city department of the home mission board of Philadelphia, as to their plans. It is expected that with the approval of the bishop, a new impetus will be given to the work and that next year will be one of unusual activity in the churches of this denomination.

Is Youngest To Receive Tryout

Walter Hudson.

Walter Hudson, a student of St. John's College at Shreveport, La., was the youngest rookie to receive a major league trial this spring.

Hudson was just turning 17 years of age, stands 6 feet 1 inch and weighs 172 pounds.

The youngster worked out with the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, Fla. He has returned to his college and will finish his course. If he decides to turn professional he will join the Boston club.

Dick Rudolph, the veteran Boston coach, says he looks like a second edition of Waite Hoyt.

The two extremes in human hair are that of the negro, flat in section and curly, and that of the Mongolian which is round and straight.

NEWARK BEATS PICKED TEAM

Granville Club Shows Lack of Team Work in Game Against High School Boys.

Newark high school baseball team won from a picked team from Granville yesterday afternoon at White athletic field by a 15 to 5 score. The game was slow during the first three innings and the visitors showed the lack of team work as the result of little practice together. Errors were numerous and play of omission were greater than those of commission. Davis started pitching for the locals but was replaced by Lynn in the fourth. Graesser appeared in the line up for the first time and made a creditable showing. Captain Barrick and Alberts, the visitor's star third baseman, hit home runs, both coming with bases unoccupied. Quinn made a fine catch in the sixth, after a long run. Captain Alberts and Sprain played well for the visitors. Palmero, the visitor's second pitcher, was not so good as Warner.

The game next week will bring the old rivals for a game at White field, Friday, when Zanesville plays the first of a two-game series. Lineup and summary.

FATHER BEATS SON IN TEN-MILE MARATHON; McALPIN SHOWS YOUNGER MEN HOW TO RUN

Frank McAlpin and George McAlpin.

Youth will be served, usually holds good in all forms of athletic competition.

The dope, however, was completely unset at Boston the other day. Father and son took part in a 10-mile open-air road race in the outskirts of Boston and father came in ahead of son.

George McAlpin is the father who upset the theory that youth must be served.

COLUMBUS A. A. TEAM WINS FIRST ROAD GAME

Kansas City, April 29.—"Pants" Rowland's Senators are off to a winning start on their first swing around the Western end of the A. A. circuit. With their crippled manager looking on from the grand stand, the Senators defeated the Blues in Kansas City's opening home game yesterday 7 to 4.

Bunching hits when base wallops meant runs won the season's starter at Association Park. Gus Bono, who recently defeated Columbus at Neil Park, was not able to go the route this afternoon. The Senators getting revenge by sending the side arm expert to cover in the fifth. Joe Morris was some improvement, but the change in pitchers came too late. At that time Columbus had obtained a six run lead.

DETROIT PITCHERS ARE INEFFECTIVE

Detroit, April 29.—Chicago appeared here for the first time this season yesterday and defeated Detroit 9 to 6. Davenport's wildness forced his removal in the third; Oldham was driven from the box in the sixth and McClellan the first man to face Stoner, his successor, hit over the left-field fence for a home run, driving in two men ahead of him.

Idleness travels leisurely, and poverty soon overtakes it.
